“Narrative and Stories in Health Care: Illness, dying and bereavement” e-grāmata, authors: Yasmin Gunaratnam, David Oliviere. Varat lasāt Ājo grāmatu lietotnā Google Play grāmatas datorā, kā arī Android un iOS ierācās. The use of narrative methods has a long history in palliative care, pioneered by Dame Cicely Saunders, founder of the modern hospice movement, Narrative and Stories in Health Care provides a vibrant, multidisciplinary examination of work with narrative and stories in contemporary health and social care, with a focus on the care of people who are ill and dying. What practical and ethical dilemmas can the methods entail in work with illness, death and dying? Much work on death, dying, grieving, and bereavement discusses the role of stories in coping with these fundamental human processes. The brief story above, based on the experiences of the senior author of this review, captures the experiences of many. But the problem is we never see the difficulties—unable to cope with her illness, bad marriage. We always see them as this wonderful child who would have grown up to be this wonderful adult. I mean, we hope that. The mother’s narrative that follows exemplifies recognition of story variability while it demonstrates that changes in bereaved people’s stories over time can indicate the quality of their coping.
