Outstanding leadership honored

The weather was just about perfect as 37 honorees and their supporters gathered at the MIAA Office May 29 to be recognized for their achievements at the Fourth Annual Coach of the Year and Student-Athlete of the Month Banquet.

After hors d'oeuvres, photo sessions, video interviews and dinner, the honorees heard guest speakers and received award plaques.

Representing the youth perspective, Jennifer O'Donnell, a Boston College student who graduated from Norwood High School in 2013 and was MIAA Student-Athlete of the Month in March 2013, spoke on the impact of educational athletics in her life. She told the current high school students that the work ethic and time-management skills they have honed as high school athletes will serve them well in college. "When making choices, think about the lessons you learned from sports," O'Donnell said.

She closed with a phrase she found memorable from last year's banquet speaker: "Make and a National Federation of High Schools (NFHS) National Coach of the Year for 2013.

"I am so motivated by you," Kates told the student-athletes. He summarized his upbringing in Dorchester, and emphasized that athletics was the main key to his success. Citing motivation, leadership and determination as key components for success in athletics, he stressed, "the most important thing is when you come back, you can be successful in life."

The first award of the evening was for Carol Martini, the Massachusetts Nominee for the 2014 NFHS Spirit of Sport Award. This award recognizes individuals who exemplify the ideals of the positive spirit of sport that represent the core mission of education-based athletics. At Andover High School, in addition to teaching Physical Education and serving as Assistant Coach for Boys Basketball, Martini created and facilitates a group of students

New England Student Leadership Conference

The State Associations of Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New

Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and New York will host this year's conference at Stonehill College in Easton. Once again, more than 275 student delegates are expected for the four-day event, the flagship initiative of MIAA's Educational Athletics program under the Leadership Pillar. Look for highlights in the next edition of Building the Future.

Bullying Prevention Institute

MIAA will once again team with Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in Society to offer the Bullying Prevention Institute, a two-day training session to be held at the MIAA August 11—12, 2014 for student and adult leaders. Participants will learn proven educational programming that will deter bullying in their schools and communities. This small, intensive institute has already filled for the 2014 session.

Captains Workshops

Deb and Dana Hult brought their high-energy presentation style to the Captains Workshop held March 28 at the MIAA Office in Franklin. They offered specifics on goal-setting to the more than 100 high school sport captains and coaches who attended.

Held in preparation for the upcoming sports season, these workshops fill quickly! Please watch www.miaa.net for the next opportunity, August 14, to open for registration.

Educational Athletics Award

Know someone or some team who has been “exemplary” in their community service work? A new award created by the MIAA Educational Athletics Committee seeks to reward that type of initiative on the part of student-athletes. Send nominations to MIAA Assistant Director Rich Riley at rriley@miaa.net. See page 4 for a photo of Riley with one of the May recipients of this prestigious new award.

November: Kayla Humel, Chicopee High School, and Peter Bae, Milford High School

October: Sarah Venn, East Longmeadow High School, and Max Bassett, Plymouth South High School

September: Mary Stafford, Dennis-Yar-mouth Regional High School, and Bradley Bousquet, Athol High School

Carol Martini of Andover High School is the Massachusetts Nominee for the 2014 NFHS Spirit of Sport Award.

Citizenship Days honor student-athletes who serve

Brigadier General Paul G. Smith, Commander, Land Component Command, Massachusetts Army National Guard, was a featured speaker at the 18th Annual Massachusetts Student-Athlete Citizenship Awards Ceremony held Tuesday, April 15, at Northeastern University.

Recognizing the Community Service accomplishments of student athletes throughout the Commonwealth takes more than one day. The MIAA 2014 Community Service Awards were conferred during two Massachusetts Student-Athlete Citizenship Days this spring. The first, on April 11 at the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, served Districts F & G, and the second, on April 15 at Northeastern University, served Districts A, B, C, D, E & H.

The days honor individual student-athletes and teams who have participated in service activities in their communities, and, in some cases, begun new service initiatives.

In addition to the conferring of awards, programming for the days also included speakers and panel discussions. The featured speaker for the Springfield Event was Colonel James J. Keefe, Commander, 104th Fighter Wing, Barnes Air National Guard Base, Massachusetts Air National Guard; the Northeastern event featured Brigadier General Paul G. Smith, Commander, Land Component Command, Massachusetts Army National Guard.

Panel Discussions included titles such as “Athletes as Role Models,” and “Creating a Community of Service,” at the Northeastern event; the Springfield panels looked at Educational Athletics from both a student and an adult perspective.

Lauren Bard, who works at English High School of Boston through a non-profit drop-out-prevention agency, Communities in Schools Boston, was thrilled to see her “Service to Mankind” crew win the award for School Class, Club or Organization. She facilitated a breakout session at the Northeastern event and said it was satisfying to hear the students, including her own, reflecting on what they learned from their experiences with community service.

“I thought it was an excellent event in that students got to hear amazing guest speakers talk about service as an enriching part of their lives. I brought about 15 students to the event, and I loved that they got recognized for their commitment to service to others. Our students have so much skill and talent that they are developing and they need opportunities to let that shine. We need to provide students with a chance to give back to their peers and their community. Recognizing them for doing so is an amazing way to encourage them to continue to be of service.”

2014 Boston Bruins–MIAA Sportsmanship Awards conferred at TD Garden

These student-athletes were honored on Monday, March 17, 2014 at the TD Garden during the first intermission of the Boston Bruins game against the Minnesota Wild.

For the 12th consecutive year, the MIAA and Boston Bruins have partnered to honor a student-athlete from every boys and girls high school ice hockey league in the state for best exemplifying a commitment to the ideals of sportsmanship throughout the season. These student-athletes were selected by representatives of their league according to the following award criteria:

- An exemplary record of complying, both in spirit and letter, with all league and MIAA rules and regulations during the season.
- A demonstrated record of respectfully accepting the rulings of game officials.
- A record of conduct, on and off the ice that brings honor to self, team, school, and community.
- A commitment to teamwork by providing all members with recognition of their talents, an opportunity to contribute them to the team, and a spirit of camaraderie.
- A demonstrated respect for opponents before, during, and after games.

Leadership

Spring 2014 was the inaugural season of the new Educational Athletics Award. MIAA Assistant Director Rich Riley has been traveling around the Commonwealth presenting this award to individuals and teams who have displayed exemplary acts aligned with the values and ideals of the MIAA Educational Athletic Pillars. Riley, left, here poses with the St. Peter-Marian Central Catholic High School (Worcester) Girls Basketball Team, who received their award recognizing an exemplary act of leadership in sponsoring a shoot-a-thon to raise funds for the Why Me Foundation.

Wellness highlights and previews

Wellness Summit

Save the date! The 2014 Wellness Summit will be held Friday October 24 from 8:00-1:30 at the Double Tree Hotel in Westborough.

The Wellness Summit offers 12 concurrent workshops on a variety of wellness topics, 25 resource exhibits, and an award ceremony to recognize those individuals who have a positive impact in our schools and communities. Schools are encouraged to register a team of student and adult leaders. Space is limited and fills quickly.

Wellness Workshop Series

The 2014-2015 school year brings an exciting assortment of Wellness Workshops including First Aid, CPR, AED Certification classes, the ever-popular Wellness Educator Showcase, Faces of Addiction Series, Injury Prevention, Leadership and more. Please visit our website regularly for program fliers and information updates.

YOU LEAD

The YOU LEAD program wraps up another great year. Program dates and locations for 2014-2015 will be finalized soon. The YOU LEAD program is designed to empower youth to be substance-free. Middle and high school groups attend a day-long workshop that features problem solving, networking, resource sharing, and an action-planning session. Students are challenged to connect with other youth and to create clubs and events that offer an alternative to underage substance use. Please visit our website for program fliers and information.

Talking Phone Book Project:

Have you thought about bringing a presenter to your school or community but don't know where to start? Need resource information? The MIAA will soon launch its "Talking Phone Book," a video compilation of experts on particular topics. Each video will introduce you to a member of our Partners in Prevention, their organization, and the resources that they can bring to your school community. The "Talking Phone Book" will be available in the fall.

MIAA Educational Athletics Service to Science Initiative

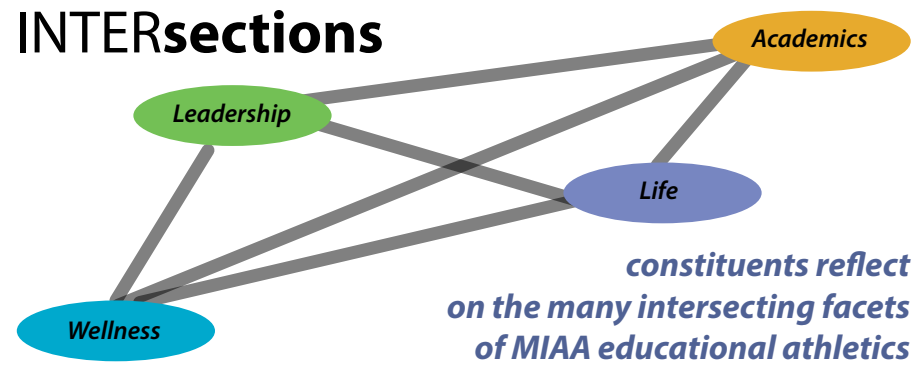

Through grant funding from Substance Abuse & Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and technical assistance provided by the Education Development Core (EDC), the MIAA completed a two-year project to build evaluation capacity for evidenced-based programs. Hopkinton High and Keefe Tech were selected through an application process to participate in our study. Teams of adult and student leaders from these schools participated in the MIAA Educational Athletics curriculum and programs from January 2013-April 2014 including the;

Wellness

Leadership Training Institute, YOU LEAD Program, Captains Workshops, New England Student Leadership Conference and Student and Adult Leader Workshops. Pre- and post-participation surveys and questionnaires were completed to measure knowledge. Follow-up surveys will measure what schools have been able to implement in their communities. Kevin Ringhofer, national trainer and program evaluator, was instrumental in developing these evaluation tools. The MIAA hopes to expand its study in scope and duration.

For additional information on any of the Wellness Initiatives, to register for a program, or to discuss hosting a program at your school or in your region, please contact Karen Nardone, YOU LEAD Program Coordinator, at 508-541-7997 or knardone@miaa.net.

Why Coaches' Education?

Dick Baker, MIAA Assistant Director, has a few answers for that question. He coordinates the state's Coaches' Education program, which has been a model program in the nation.

Baker offers the following supportive facts:

- In a survey published in Health Day, (April 26, 2012), it states, "92 percent of parents said they rely on coaches to keep their children safe while playing sports and only two in five parents know how much sports safety training their child's coach has received."

Certified coaches are trained in all safety procedures.

- Certified coaches add a credible defense

Coaches' Education

against certain types of litigation.

- Student-athletes going out for a sport want trained coaches, just as coaches want trained officials.

- Schools want trained teacher-coaches who know how to deal with student-athletes in regards to skill development, safety, and sportsmanship.

- Coaches need to understand and know the school athletic rules, the rules of their sport, and the MIAA rules.

- Schools want to have teacher-coaches who set as a goal for all student-athletes to reach their potential both as a student and as an athlete.

- Schools want to have coaches who have a clear understanding of the triangle—coach/athlete/parents—and need for all to work together.

- Schools want teacher-coaches who understand their role with each student-athlete; treat them as though they were the coach's own children; support/assist them with higher education; follow coach's code of ethics; and work with other school staff, teachers and coaches for the advancement of the student.

- Schools want coaches who educate the student-athletes in life lessons and have a clear understanding of what "Educational Athletics" is.

- Schools want coaches who understand "win with dignity" and "lose with class"; who have a clear appreciation of both, and who foster positive interactions with officials of her/his sport.

With those tenets offered, Baker said he knows schools have questions about implementation, so he offers responses to these frequently-asked questions:

Q: If our school has all our coaches take the ARC First Aid Course, will this meet the requirement?

A: Yes, the athletic director needs to send a list of coaches who are certified by ARC – please include the ARC Chapter & date course was taken.

Q: We just hired a coach who started coaching in 1997. Is she/he exempt?

A: Yes, providing she/he was coaching at the interscholastic level in 1997.

Q: Why is this rule in place?

A: To give all new coaches a foundation for coaching within an education-based athletic program. The NFHS Fundamentals of Coaching Course provides a unique student-centered curriculum for interscholastic coaches, assisting them in creating a healthy and age-appropriate experience that supports the academic mission of education based athletics.

Q: Many of our coaches have not taken any of the courses. How do I begin?

A: Set up a course ASAP at your school

The Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association encourages its member schools to teach Educational Athletics through the following five pillars:

Wellness:

to empower students to make healthy life choices

Sportsmanship:

to teach respect for self, team, opponents, officials, rules, and the game itself

Coaches' Education:

to provide resources for teacher-coaches who serve as curriculum instructors of educational athletics

Leadership:

to promote the power of positive influence that student-athletes and teacher-coaches share as role models

Community Service:

to recognize the privilege of athletic participation and the responsibility of giving back to the community

Building the Future

and make all coaches aware of MIAA Rule 33, and what they must complete over a three-year period. If necessary, call the MIAA and request an extension of the time requirements.

Q: We have several volunteer coaches who assist with concessions and do some scouting – do they need to take the course?

A: No, only volunteers that are in direct contact with student-athletes need to take the courses.

Q: Who pays for our coaches and volunteers to take these mandated courses?

A: Varies from one school to the next, much like graduate courses, workshops, and clinics. Some schools/booster clubs/donors pay, while many times the individual coach/volunteer pays themselves, since the end result will be to their benefit.

It's not called the Captains' Challenge for nothing...Massachusetts high school team captains tried out the Leadership Reaction Course and Obstacle Course at Camp Edwards, Bourne, under the supervision of National Guard personnel on May 16. These exercise facilities are designed to build leadership skills, encourage teamwork, develop technical and tactical proficiency, and confidence.

Dr. Michael Connelly facilitated a breakout session on leadership during the May 19 Middle Level Athletic Workshop at the MIAA/MSSAA Office in Franklin. Dr. Connelly was a middle level administrator for many years and specializes in middle level concerns as an MSSAA Assistant Director.

Educational Athletics pillars introduced to middle level student-athletes

The Massachusetts Secondary School Administrators' Association (MSSAA) offered a new initiative at the MIAA/MSSAA Office this spring to introduce educational athletic concepts to middle schoolers. The workshop was sponsored by MSSAA's Middle Level Athletic Committee.

"Educational Athletics for the Middle School Student-Athlete" on May 19 attracted nearly 50 middle schoolers and their adult educators. It offered an overview and breakout sessions centered around Wellness, Sportsmanship, Leadership and Community Service.

The breakout sessions included group discussions, situational thinking and problem solving.

According to Bob Silveira, principal of Joseph Case Junior High School in Swansea, who brought 10 student-athletes from his school, "This was an outstanding workshop. The format of having students move from session to session based on the four pillars worked well."

Facilitators included MIAA Assistant Directors Rich Riley, Peter Smith and Dick Baker, and MSSAA Assistant Director Dr. Mike Connelly. Hosting was Bob Murphy, Principal of Swampscott Middle School and chair of the committee.

MIAA teams with Anti-Defamation League to share best practices in bullying prevention

Once again this spring, the Anti-Defamation League's A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE® Institute teamed up with MIAA to offer an "interactive anti-bias" workshop. "Building Unity in Your School Community: Best Practices in Bullying Prevention," was held March 14, 2014 at the MIAA Office in Franklin and drew more than 30 students and educators.

current bullying prevention plans in participants' schools; and identified best practices in building community to foster a safer, more respectful learning environment and a culture of e-safety and e-sportsmanship.

Facilitator Phil Fogelman, Director, A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE® Institute, ADL New England Region, said, "I applaud the educators who came from as far as western Massachusetts and Rhode Island to learn how they can do more than they are already doing in their schools to prevent bullying, cyberbullying and harassment. Their ongoing efforts are key to the transformation of the cultural norm in our schools and communities from reactive to proactive."

Sportsmanship

Workshop participants examined the nature and impact of bullying, cyberbullying, and harassment on members of a school community; assessed the overall effectiveness of
