The phrase "informed consent" basically maintains that you are legally capable of consenting. You are informed and knowledgeable to what you are agreeing too. Source(s): http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Informed\_consent. Anonymous 9 years ago. 1. You seem like a reasonable person who just wants to understand what you went through. When something goes wrong with a patient I always try to explain to them what happened. Unfortunately, many doctors are simply overworked, and the time to adequately investigate and explain the error can take an hour or more out of your schedule. Many doctors are also under the mistaken impression that discussing an error with a patient will make them more likely to sue.
